FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SALEHOO ANNOUNCES NEW COMMUNITY MANAGER

The 65,000 strong online community names Marc Ransom as their CM and front-man

Salehoo.com, the online product sourcing directory has announced their new community manager, Marc Ransom. Ransom will replace Jimmy Huber, who has held the position for the last three years, but is now stepping aside for family reasons. Ransom brings 15 years of experience in sales and marketing as well as two years as a highly active SaleHoo member to the table.

Currently running two businesses, Cafebytz.com and Liquidityinc, Ransom has previously been a eBay powerseller, and continues to sell on eBay Australia in his spare time.

As community manager, Marc Ransom will be responsible for moderating the forum and answering member questions. "We're certainly sad to say goodbye to Jimmy, who's been a big part of our organization since we started" says Simon Slade, Salehoo.com CEO, "but we're really excited to have Marc coming on board. He's a really experienced guy and I think he'll bring a lot of great ideas and knowledge into the site".

Ransom began his role on June 1st, working from his home in Brisbane, Australia. "It will be a pleasure working beside SaleHoo staff in assisting members wherever I am able." says Ransom, "it is my intention to not only offer ongoing support to our membership, but to actively search for effective ways of ensuring Salehoo.com remains at the very forefront of its field."

About SaleHoo: SaleHoo is an global product sourcing community offering a wholesale and dropshipper directory with over 8000 verified product sources, a active forum and comprehensive educational resources. Salehoo currently has over 65,000 active members.
